Dear NPC Community,

Today we announced that Zevra Therapeutics has appointed Neil F. McFarlane as our new President and Chief Executive Officer!

Neil joins our team at an exciting time for Zevra as we continue to make important progress on potential treatments for NPC and bring needed therapeutics to people with limited options. He comes to Zevra with deep experience in leading biopharma companies and successfully developing specialty and rare disease therapeutics.

Patients are always at the center of our work, which played a significant role in Neil joining Zevra. From his days in clinical practice to today as we strive to bring needed therapies from development to patients who need them, he is highly aligned with Zevra's mission and our partnership with you. As Neil's tenure progresses, we will look forward to opportunities to connect online and in-person.

Thank you for your continued, productive partnership. We are grateful for our work together and look forward to making positive strides for the patient communities we serve.

If you have any questions, please feel free to reach out to patientadvocacy@zevra.com.

Warm regards,
The Zevra Team
